Where's IIsley?

KISSIMMEE, Fl (September 17, 2005) Travelocity has the traveling garden gnome, Oscar Meyer has its traveling weinermobile, and this summer another industry icon has hit the road in a quest for public awareness. It's the American Association for Nude Recreation's (www.aanr.com) "IIsley," traveling coast to coast, from nudist resort to nudist resort, in a year-long celebration of the association's 75th anniversary.

What exactly is an IIsley? It's a crystal clear memorial to IIsley Silas Boone, founder of the American Sunbathing Association formed in 1931 with some 200 members, and the precursor to AANR, which the association's name changed to in 1995. Boone was also the publisher of some of the most famous nudist magazines in America, The Nudist and Sunshine and Health, both available on newsstands. Boone passed away on Thanksgiving Day, November 26, 1968. His obituary in the New York Times called him "the czar of the nudist movement in the USA."

To plot IIsley's travels from Florida to California (and the AANR clubs visited) through August 2006, and to learn more about nude recreation, visit www.aanr.com and click on "Where's IIsley" or call 1-800-Try-Nude.
